

Denali Ecosystem - Who Eats What?*

Ecological monitoring programs must be matched to the ecosystem being monitored. Thus, a critical step in the design process is to create a conceptual model of the ecosystem of interest. This food web showing who eats what at Denali is part of our effort to describe our current understanding of the Denali Ecosystem.

Source: Oakley, K.L. and S. L. Boudreau. 2000. Conceptual design of the long-term ecological monitoring program for Denali National Park and Preserve. 116 pp.